

Come Join Us on Devolutions' Main Facebook and Twitter Accounts

AT DEVOLUTIONS WE ARE ALL ABOUT KEEPING THINGS AS SIMPLE

It is said that "variety is the spice of life." However, sometimes a little too much variety can be confusing rather than clarifying — like when companies have multiple social media accounts, and you aren't sure which one is worth your time and attention.

Well, at Devolutions we are all about keeping things as SIMPLE for our community as possible. After all, the IT world is complicated enough! We are here to lighten the burden, not to add to it.

And so, that is why we are in the process of consolidating our product-based Facebook and Twitter accounts into our main “Devolutions Inc.” accounts.

For example, instead of having separate Facebook and Twitter accounts focused on Remote Desktop Manager we are going to bring EVERYTHING over to our main company Facebook and Twitter accounts.

Here are the practical benefits of this shift:

- You will save time by only needing to check out one pair of Facebook/Twitter accounts vs. multiple pairs of accounts.
- The content you find — such as product information, company news, reviews, polls, case studies, and more — will always be up to date.
- It will be faster and easier for you to get in touch with our team (and we always welcome your questions, comments, and ideas!).

What you need to do:

If you already follow our main Facebook and Twitter accounts, there is nothing for you to do.

If you do not yet follow our main Facebook and Twitter accounts, then we invite you to do so now by clicking the links below:

<https://twitter.devolutions.net>

<https://facebook.devolutions.net>

We plan on consolidating our Facebook and Twitter accounts in the next few weeks. Since we will be deleting our product-focused accounts, we will publish a sticky post inviting people to visit our main accounts prior to the consolidations.

Questions?

If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to get in touch. You can email me at mocantin@devolutions.net.

Thanks — and see you on social media!